A Message from our Board Chair

Welcome to the Calgary Police Youth Foundation's 2023 Annual Report.

Through this report to the community, we are excited to share the accomplishments and milestones we have achieved this past year - all thanks to the support of our incredible partners and generous supporters.

Throughout the year, the Calgary Police Youth Foundation provides leadership and funding to nine child and youth programs aimed at keeping our young people safe from crime and victimisation. These programs, which are delivered by the Calgary Police Service and other community partners, provide the guidance, education, and resources needed to ensure our future generations can thrive and succeed.

We believe that every child and youth deserves a life untouched by crime but unfortunately, we know that this is not always possible. That is where we come in. We know that the support that we provide can help guide these youth through challenging times, steering them towards a path to a brighter future.

This year, to address ongoing needs within the communities we serve, we introduced two new programs to our annual funding priorities - ReDirect and Bridging Bytes. These programs tackle the issues of hate or ideological based conflict and technological scarcity among marginalized communities.

We are fortunate that as the needs of our community change, we have the ability to adapt and address these needs head on. This is how we ensure the programs we support are reaching children and youth when they need it most and are having the greatest impact.

I am incredibly grateful to all of our generous supporters and the Calgary Police Service for making this impact possible. It is because of you that children, youth and their families receive the support they need from the Calgary Police Youth Foundation. Together, we are creating a brighter future for all youth.

With gratitude,

Bonita Croft
Board Chair, Calgary Police Youth Foundation

"I would say to the people that help fund and donate to this program a really big thank you, because it's thanks to their kindness and funding that we have a really good program that helps me and many other kids in the future."
- Mateo, Calgary Police Cadet Corps

A Message from Chief Constable Mark Neufeld

The partnership between the Calgary Police Service and the Calgary Police Youth Foundation is a special one. Through the nine programs funded and supported by the Calgary Police Youth Foundation, our officers have the opportunity to reach children and youth at a critical time in their life, helping to guide them on a better path, or prevent them from becoming young victims of crime.

Calgary Police Service officers work directly within the programs, providing resources, mentorship, and support to children, youth, and families, helping to build relationships and create a safer community for all.

These programs are unique among policing agencies in Canada. The police are often called in to help after a crime has already been committed and these programs allow our officers to identify potential risk factors and to work directly with youth in order to get ahead of the issue and help prevent crime or victimisation before it even happens.

Through the crime prevention, education, and early intervention programs supported by the Calgary Police Youth Foundation, children and youth have access to a variety of supports including social workers, police officers, health clinicians, and mental health professionals. This holistic approach allows us to address the immediate needs of the participants, while also addressing the underlying factors that may be contributing to crime or victimisation, such as poverty, substance abuse, gangs, food insecurity, and domestic violence.

Ultimately, these programs are best in class and are making an extremely positive impact in our community. I am grateful to have an organization like the Calgary Police Youth Foundation in our city. The Calgary Police Service looks forward to our continued partnership with the Calgary Police Youth Foundation and the great work we do together.

Sincerely,

Mark Neufeld
Chief Constable, Calgary Police Service

? Why Us, Why Now?

Calgary is a fast-growing and diverse city with great civic pride. Like many other large Canadian cities though, Calgary is dealing with systemic problems like food insecurity, addictions, racism, hate crimes and widening inequities.

These systemic issues can lead to children and youth living with a lack of supervision or in unsafe homes, susceptible to crime and victimization.

Through the programs provided by the Calgary Police Youth Foundation, we educate, equip, and empower young people to make informed decisions to avoid criminal activity and victimization. We raise funds in the community and steward donor dollars towards the creation, maintenance, and improvement of these programs, which are unique among policing cities in Canada.

We also connect community organizations and individuals to the Calgary Police Service. In most of our programs, officers are the ones directly interacting with children and youth and they, along with their parents and caregivers come to see police officers as part of a wider circle of trusted and supportive adults they can turn to.

The programs we fund seek to tackle the issue of youth crime and victimization in targeted, evidence-based way across a spectrum, helping children and youth to have long-lasting, positive outcomes.

Our Commitment to Reconciliation

We recognize the importance of investing in Indigenous youth and Indigenous communities to help advance the reconciliation journey. We aim to build and strengthen relationships with Indigenous children and youth based on recognition, rights, respect and partnership.

Building positive relationships with Indigenous communities is of key importance to the Calgary Police Youth Foundation 2024 Business Plan. In our Business Plan, we aim to build positive relationships with Indigenous communities in order to learn and understand unique viewpoints to ensure the cultural relevance of our programming.

With the help of our community, we are currently working to develop a comprehensive and culturally informed Indigenous Engagement Strategy, which will be implemented by late 2024.

The Calgary Police Youth Foundation works together with our communities to ensure that the programs we offer are culturally appropriate, dignified and delivered with the necessary sensitivities to ensure the children we serve feel welcome and supported. We recognize the importance of including participants and community members in program development and evaluation processes and pursuing all recommendations provided.

Similarly, CPYF recognizes the inequities and systemic discrimination that continues to exist within numerous organizational structures; with guidance from Indigenous communities and leaders, we continually reflect on the ways in which program access and equity can be improved.

MASST accepts that if these children and their families receive early and individualized assessment of risk and access to social support services through police, social workers, schools, and their community, there will be an increased likelihood that the child's ability to manage risk and maintain positive lifestyles will improve.

The children and their families work closely with teams of police officers, registered social workers, and mental health care professionals, often for extended periods of time to achieve the following long-range goals:

1. decreased likelihood that children will be involved in negative or possibly criminal patterns of behaviour or victimization
2. increased collaboration among police, schools, and other agencies in addressing crime prevention and child/family resiliency
3. MASST-involved children and families have an improved perception around the role of police, social workers, and other helping professionals.

Currently, there are 12 MASST teams which work in school communities in each of the four quadrants of Calgary.

Power Play

Power Play is a free, weekly program that provides children and youth ages 6-17 with the opportunity to learn how to play hockey and soccer with Calgary Police Service officers in a safe and supportive environment.

Power Play helps to foster trust and understanding between the police and members of diverse and marginalized communities while helping to make sport accessible to those who may not have ready access to recreational sport.

Power Play serves approximately 70 children and youth per week throughout both the hockey and soccer season. Power Play Hockey runs on Wednesday evenings from October - March at Max Bell arena, while Power Play soccer runs from June to August at Father Lacombe School.

Youth at Risk Development Program

The Youth at Risk Development (YARD) program is a community-based, early intervention program that supports youth ages 10-17 that are currently at risk, affiliated with a gang, or involved in gang activity.

YARD is delivered in partnership by the Calgary Police Service (CPS), the City of Calgary and Alberta Health Services (AHS).

The five YARD teams, which include an Indigenous focused team, consist of a police officer and a registered social worker who work closely with the youth client, their families, schools, and community agencies. Additionally, YARD has the benefit of a clinician provided through Alberta Health Services for those clients with more acute mental health needs.

YARD develops an individualized case plan for each youth, based on their unique circumstances, to assist them in avoiding or leaving the gang lifestyle. The program is client-driven in that youth with the support of their team develop and work on goals in the following areas: improving interpersonal relationships, improving mental health and wellness, increased life skills and increased prosocial activities. Participation in the YARD program is voluntary.

YouthLink Calgary

Together with the Calgary Police Service, YouthLink Calgary delivers relevant and captivating content, provoking youth to confront the issues of their time, make positive life choices and become responsible citizens in their communities.

YouthLink Calgary plays a critically important role in the education of youth and families. Students learn about the most pressing issues of their time, become empowered to make good decisions, and keep away from crime and victimization. Powerful and interactive educational exhibits focus on gangs, drugs, bullying, online safety, healthy relationships, and forensics.

Safe for Life Zones use credible information provided by CPS members and stories from Calgarians to educate Calgary youth in four core areas: Drugs, Gangs, Online Safety and Healthy Relationships. The educational resources are intended to build awareness on how to recognize the dangers, understand how certain actions can lead to consequences, and most importantly youth learn how to seek help at a time when it is most needed.

Integrated School Support Program

The Integrated School Support Program (ISSP), delivered by the Calgary Police Youth Foundation, is a child wellness initiative that is intended to provide essential services to address a variety of needs in diverse schools and communities.

The goal is to improve academic performance and the social, emotional, and physical well-being of children. We want to enhance and make accessible the supports and resources necessary to fulfill this goal.

Our objective is to provide the necessary wraparound supports in the school. These supports include a positive police presence, an on-site Mental Health Professional, a physical education teacher, nutrition programs, and after-school programs. The combination of these essential elements ensures that children who may be facing access barriers have a safe, healthy school experience where they are able to focus on their learning, unburdened by other concerns.

Inspired by the two founding schools and with financial support from the Government of Alberta, the ISSP program started a roll out across Alberta and by end of 2025 it is anticipated ISSP will be operational in 56 schools across 48 communities within Alberta.

New Programs: Bridging Bytes

Bridging Bytes provides marginalized youth with access to essential technology devices such as laptops, tablets, and internet connectivity to empower them with digital skills and opportunity for education, personal development, and safety.

Bridging Bytes aims to empower children and youth who access programs supported by the Calgary Police Youth Foundation and Calgary Police Service by providing access to technology and fostering digital literacy skills. The program seeks to bridge the digital divide by supplying computers, laptops, cell phones and tablets to children and youth who do not have access to these tools for learning and skill development. The overarching goal of the program is to empower children and youth to leverage technology as a tool for education and personal growth, ultimately fostering a more inclusive and equitable society.

We believe that equitable access to technology is not just about giving everyone the same device; it is about ensuring that children and youth have the same opportunities to learn, create, innovate and remain safe, regardless of their background or circumstance.

New Programs: ReDirect

ReDirect is a collaboration between the Calgary Police Service and the City of Calgary that supports youth ages 12-18 who are engaging in hate or ideology based conflict with others.

Teams comprised of a police officer and a social worker work with the youth to build resiliency by increasing life skills, improving conflict resolution abilities and by connecting them to their community. The goals of the new ReDirect program are to:

- Address and reduce the vulnerabilities that can lead to a youth engaging in ideological and/or hate-motivated conflict
- Provide individualized supports and services to youth that have been engaged in ideological and/or hate-motivated conflict with others
- Support the families of youth at risk of or engaging in ideological and/or hate-motivated conflict to increase protective factors
- Develop public and professional awareness about what makes a youth vulnerable to ideological and/or hate-motivated conflict by providing learning opportunities, supporting community initiatives, and empowering the community

Third Party Events

This year, we were able to once again be the charity recipients of many third party fundraisers. Some of these include the Hole 'n Fun Charity Golf Tournament, Beacons of Hope Celebration, Calgary Police Half Marathon, Steel Dreamz, the Shaw Charity Classic and the Tim Hortons Smile Cookie Campaign. Each of these initiatives brought members of our community together in a meaningful way - all in support of children and youth. Thank you to the organizers and the organizations that selected CPYF as their charity of choice in 2023 and for their ongoing support of those we serve.

"This was an incredibly positive way for children, families, staff at Ranchlands Elementary and police to all connect within their community. It was a HUGE success! THANK YOU to the CPYF Bridges to Brighter Futures program. Without their organisation, teamwork and sponsorship, this event would not have been possible."

Drive of Champions

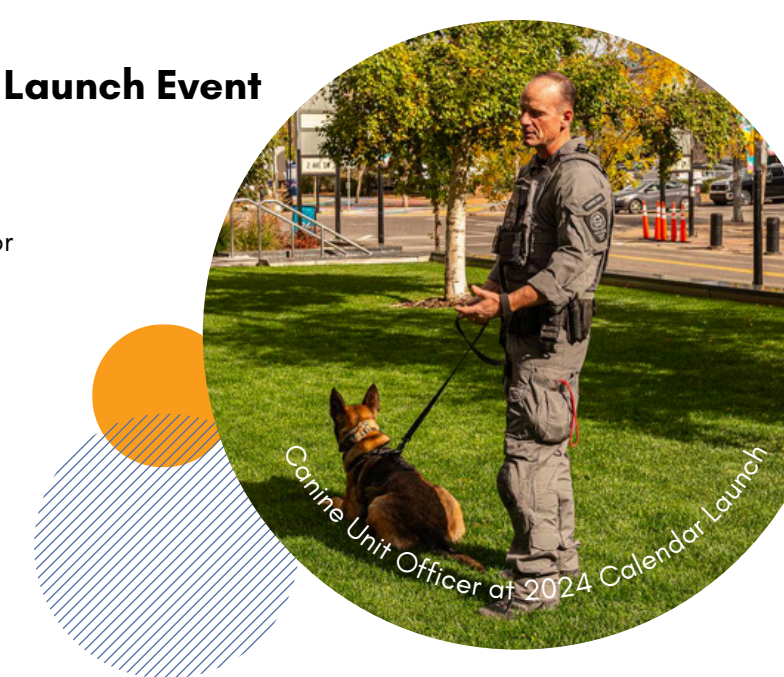

At our first annual Drive of Champions event, we welcomed 34 child and youth co-pilots who joined us for the ride of a lifetime in a unique car. This premiere event included a stunning cocktail event, silent and live auctions, and a special drive day event which took our lucky co-pilots on an incredible journey along highway 22X. We were escorted along the way by the CPS Traffic Section and Alberta Sheriff's Department, and participants got to enjoy a pictureeque pit-stop at Priddis Greens Golf Course.

Calendar Campaign and Equine & Art Launch Event

This year, CPYF kicked off our annual calendar campaign with a special launch event at Spruce Meadows named Equine & Art. This launch brought our supporters together for an evening of drinks, delicious appetizers, CPS demonstrations, and more. We also unveiled a stunning equine painting by artist Paul Van Ginkel, which was auctioned off in support of CPYF.

In 2023, our calendars were once again a hit with the Calgary community and beyond. These incredible calendars proudly showcased the important work of the CPS Mounted unit, Canine unit and Traffic section, while raising funds in support of CPYF.
